

The Uninest Packing Checklist

Heading off to college is an important time in your life. You'll meet loads of new people, learn new things, and get to look after yourself for the first time. There's a lot to consider when you're moving away from home, such as money management, choosing where to live, and, most importantly, what to take with you!

You've probably packed to go on holiday before, but this ain't no holiday, plus you probably didn't have to take a duvet cover the last time you visited the Costa del Sol. So to give you a helping hand, we've put together a list of all the things that you should be packing to give you the best chance at settling into college quickly.

Kitchen

The kitchen. The no-man's land of the flat. The place where student friendships are truly tested. The place where you'll repeatedly hear the accusatory question, "Did you use my milk?" And the place where you'll hone your instant-noodle-making skills.

Stock up on all these kitchen essentials, and you and your flatmates will remain happy and harmonious.

Utensils

Pots & Pans

Cutlery

Cookbook

Bottle Opener

Chopping Board

Cups & Glasses

Washing-up Liquid

Bedroom

On a whole, your flat is a shared space. You and your flatmates will use the same kitchen and living area, but your bedroom is your domain, your little sanctuary, your space where you can inject a bit of your personality.

Laundry Basket

Duvet & Pillows

Duvet Cover & Pillow Cases

Blankets

Desk Lamp

Matress Protector

Clothes Hangers

Studying

Believe it or not, you're going to have to study at some point, and when you do, it's best to be prepared. Taking a few things along with you will save you the time and effort you would use running to the supermarket to stock up on all the essential study items. Make sure you lay all these things out on your bedroom desk, because when you eventually recover from freshers' week, it'll be time to get stuck into your degree.
